SPONSOR A PROJECT PROGRAM DESCRIPTIONS

Operations - A donation of $6,000 will cover our essential operating expenses for one month or will fund the annual stipend of a staff position.

Technology - A donation of $5,000 will cover these expenses for one year, allowing us to continue efficiently and effectively reaching parents and professionals. Examples of API technology contracts include Web-based services for database management, eMarketing infrastructure, survey response collection, and Web hosting.

NEW! Parent Education Program (PEP) - A donation of $5,000 will be earmarked for the critical launch phase of this new and important source of support and education for parents. This undertaking helps us realize one of our core strategies. In addition to being able to offer a new level of education, API will also be in a position to earn sustaining income. This program will be launched in May 2008 and Parent Educators will begin the process of training in the summer of 2008.

Attachment Parenting: The Journal of API - A donation of $4,000 will allow API to produce one issue of our quarterly publication, Attachment Parenting: The Journal of API. The Journal of API is a valuable tool for supporting and educating parents and serves as a critical outreach tool through strategic placement in doctors' offices, children's museums, new baby welcome packets, high-risk parenting organizations, and other locations frequented by parents. Funds will be reserved for costs directly related to this publication, including editing and layout fees, printing, and postage.

Education Materials - A donation of $3,000 will allow us to print 20,000 brochures. These materials will be made available to API Leaders, clinicians, and others who can use them as tools to expand our reach to parents in need. API realizes the importance of creating new materials for parents and leaders. Examples include pamphlets based on the full-length version of the Eight Principles of Attachment Parenting and new brochures for parents and professionals.

NEW! Enhanced Web Media - A donation of $1,000 will be earmarked for developing enhanced web media. Our newly redesigned website allows us a fantastic outreach tool through which we can offer support and education in new, exciting and more cost effective ways -- around the world. We would like to offer online training opportunities, a robust online community, and a multimedia experience that parents, interested community members, and leaders will enjoy and learn from.
